Character Description Of The Twits

" - The Twits Mr Twit is one half of a horrible couple called The Twits. He and his wife (and we never really find out why they married...) spend most of their time terrorising each other with nasty tricks, except for the times when they're terrorising the children, animals and birds that have the misfortune to cross their path - like the poor Muggle-Wump Monkeys.

Mr Twit - Roald Dahl

In fact, he and his equally unlovely wife, Mrs Twit, are just about as horrible as can be - but there are a few characters who might just have found a way to outsmart this nasty pair... The Twits, first published in 1980, may be about a pair of horrible twits, but it also features one of the most-quoted phrases in all of Roald's books...

The Twits - Roald Dahl

The idea of The Twits was triggered by Dahl's desire to 'do something against beards', because he had an acute hatred of them. The first sentence of the story is, 'What a lot of hairy-faced men there are around nowadays!' Plot. A hideous, vindictive, spiteful couple known as the Twits live together in a brick house without windows.
