So the title says it all. I'm trying to setup dual monitors on my HP EliteDesk 800 G1 SFF. Here's my setup: 1. Primary monitor (Acer B223W) is on DisplayPort and displays things normally. 2. Secondary monitor (HP LP2065) is on VGA port. The problem is that my second monitor port never gets a signal from the machine and soon goes to sleep mode.

Another downside to the HP EliteDesk 800 G1 is the lack of some important support services with HP. While you get a three-year warranty that covers labor and parts, HP doesn't have asset-recovery services, online backup or remote diagnostic services. These are important services, because your business computer is a critical aspect of your business.
