I would suggest trying to find a baler with rotor feed as they start bakes much better than the 644 which has to be eased into the swath to get a new bale started. Oh by the way don't believe all they say about welgers there are plenty of other good makes out there in all makes models and price ranges.

644's are at least the 2nd generation of nh belt balers. Assuming that the 640's were the first. They are hard core, although the core can be adjusted by the spring tension. The tighter the spring, the tighter the core. Then you also have the pressure control on the cylinder. So you can have a hard or soft core bale with high or low density. As far as I know they are reliable, look fairly easy to work on and maintain.
