Rome And China Comparative Perspectives

Overall, Rome and China offers some interesting comparisons between aspects of Qin/Han China and Imperial Rome. Some of the chapters tend more toward sociology than history. I found Bang's chapter on trade, Lewis' chapter on gift giving, and Scheidel's chapter on the monetary system to be the most interesting.

Migration in the Mediterranean region is a widely debated and much studied topic. This is due to the present refugee crisis, consequences of Arab revolutions, the proximity with emigration and transit countries, but also to the involvement of southern European countries and the mass arrival of migrants. The management of Border controls, migration, development, human trafficking, human rights ...
