The Battle Of Copenhagen 1801

The Battle of Copenhagen of 1801 (Danish: Slaget på Reden) was a naval battle in which a British fleet fought and defeated a smaller force of the Dano-Norwegian Navy anchored near Copenhagen on 2 April 1801. The battle came about over British fears that the powerful Danish fleet would ally with France, and a breakdown in diplomatic communications in both sides. The Royal Navy won a resounding victory, besting fifteen Danish warships while losing none in return.
