Organic potatoes are grown without synthetic fertilizers or pesticides. Organic seed potatoes - mature potato tubers - are planted in well-drained, moist soil where they will get at least six or eight hours of sunshine. Potatoes grow best in cool weather, neither freezing nor above the upper 80s which reduces tuber production.

Growing Organic Potatoes | DIY

Now on organic potatoes we put down about 15 tons per acre. Which is about 1/2 inch thick. Also, we don't rely on compost as the only source of Nitrogen. Throughout the growing season we add several different types of organically approved liquid fertilizers to potatoes so that we don't have to rely on compost as our only source of nutrients.
