Von Dutch is one of the most interesting characters in hot rod and popular culture history. Considered the founder of "modern" pinstriping, he was a prominent character in many of the rodding magazines of the late '50s, and his fame endured long after he apparently tired of it. Besides being a striper, he was a gifted artist, machinist, and gun- and knifsmith.

The Art of Von Dutch The Von Dutch name is one shrouded in mystery. His elaborate pinstriping, wild painting and remarkable craftsmanship brought him into the public eye, as did his temperamental persona. From the early-'50s to the present day, he's gotten a whole lot of ink everywhere from teen magazines to The Rodder's Journal.

The Life Of Von Dutch - LETTERVILLE

Kenneth Robert Howard (September 7, 1929–September 19, 1992), also known as Dutch, Von Dutch, or J. L. Bachs (Joe Lunch Box), was an American motorcycle mechanic, artist, pin striper, metal fabricator, knifemaker and gunsmith. His father, Wally Howard, was a Los Angeles sign painter; and, by the age of 10, the young Howard was able to paint and letter at a professional level.
